What/Where is a village?

Population,

Increase of urbanization from village → town → city → Metropolis

(Rural) (Urban)

Economy,

Primary occupation of village people is mostly agriculture.

Size,

Size is not reliable when we were talking about village/city.

⇒ There are three views of villages. Nehru, Gandhi and Ambedkar.
(we will be discussing that in future)

Community,

Community is a group of people having something common. Community is used for religion, caste but not for gender.

→ But LGBTQIA+ is considered as a community as they share their difficulties in their livelihood which are common among them.

Association,

Association means group of people come together for a particular purpose. Association is a kind of volunteering. It depends on the people that they can enter and exit whenever they want.

⇒ Community is like an emotional connection between the people and there is no entry and exit by our choice.

Gemeinschaft vs Gesellschaft (Max Weber: Community vs Society)

→ German word Gemeinden - community.

⇒ Village is a community / Association?

> Village can actually both community and Association.

There is an emotional bond between the people but at the same time it's our choice to leave the village which means we can also exit.

⇒ Functionalism [Analogy of body as an organism]

↳ Society is like human body. Each organ in the body has a specific role to do in the same way we people do different works related to society.

⇒ Functional unity of the system.

↳ All organs in the body work together to make the body healthier. In the same way we all work together for wealthier/good society.

⇒ Unity of the whole through functioning of its parts.

Jajmani system

↳ Mutual inter dependence of castes.

→ different caste groups perform different roles, just like different organs perform different roles.

⇒ Patron-client relationship

↳ servicing
↳ means someone who is sponsoring

⇒ Relationship is not purely economic.

↳ Ex: When payment is not done by cash then it is not purely economic. It is a combination of economic + culture.

→ In old days they don't exchange cash instead of that they offer grain, food, clothes or shelter to live and they make them to work for them. It is a tradition form of exchange.

⇒ Functional for everybody is same way?

lets take an example of highways.

→ highways are beneficial for those who travel through cities/states/countries. Also for dabbha owners. But it is not beneficial for those people who lost their village/hometown because of highways.

> Those people who don't even know how/what to do for their livelihood in cities/town. They only know about agriculture.

Demonetization

Online payment is beneficial for sellers and also purchasers but people^{those} who don't have bank accounts or don't know how to use online payments are disfunctional.

Covid-19

lockdown affected people differently

- Disfunctional for labours, daily wage workers, conductors.
- functional for those people who work at home.
- Online classes affected students alot. Students who can't afford phones lost their study during pandemic ~~can~~ time.

Drawbacks of functionalist perspective,

- functionalism does not give enough emphasis to
- conflict
- it focuses on equilibrium
- Idea of "village solidarity" needs to be taken with a pinch of salt?
